Wales will play their first home match of the 2016 Six Nations Championship against Scotland on Saturday 13th February at the newly-named Principality Stadium in Cardiff. Wales have beaten Scotland in each of their previous eight encounters – a winning run that stretches back to 2008 and includes last season's hard-fought 26-23 victory at Murrayfield. Wales and Scotland have contested a total of 120 rugby test matches since their first meeting in 1883. Wales have won 69 of those matches, whilst Scotland have won 48. There have been 3 drawn matches between the two nations.
